

Not only did Oswald encode words by combining Russian and English words, Oswald utilized invisible ink to prepare and develop secret messages. When the FBI seized his possessions after November 22, 1963, the FBI consolidated some of them into Item 373

Item 373

This item is composed of miscellaneous Russian and American made pharmaceuticals, a fever
thermometer of Russian make and two eye-droppers. ^{Nothing unusual was found concerning these items.}
There are 31 samples of
and a German coin, 1 Pfennig.
pharmaceuticals, each sample of which,
~~each~~ could be used to prepare and/or develop a secret ink message.

11/27/63
AM

This item is composed of miscellaneous Russian and American made pharmaceuticals, a fever thermometer of Russian make and two eye droppers and a German coin, 1 Pfennig. Nothing unusual was found concerning these items. There are 31 samples of pharmaceuticals, each sample of which could be used to prepare and/or develop a secret ink message.

The four bottles of Pentide 400 by Squibb could be used to write or develop a secret ink message →

all out -
You will stay on
* he + not what are used in Cuba or Russia esp

11/27/63
AM

The four bottles of Pentide 400 by Squibb could be used to write or develop a secret ink message. (Handwritten note) all out (?) and not what are used in Cuba or Russia esp.