A bit severe this combination but it has been designed with very strict restriction of a prisoner's movement in mind. Firstly the leg irons (Chinese oversize leg irons E with just one link) are applied to the prisoners bare ankles or ankles with boots. Next the prisoner's hands are placed in the Yuil handcuffs. The additional chain which is approximately 8 inches long can then be attached by padlock to a solid floor anchor. The whole combination is joined together with just one stout welded ring.

Apologies, we are not allowed to export leg irons outside the European Union.

These less heavy weight high security leg irons weigh slightly under a kilo and have approximately 26cm of chain between the two 75mm irons which are secured using a 'Yale' type tumbler lock. Each lock has a screw on black plastic cap. These leg irons are clearly intended for long term use for prisoners of smaller stature.

Apologies, we are not allowed to export leg irons outside the European Union.

These extremely heavy 80mm diameter leg irons weigh around 3.5 kilos which is around 7.5 pounds. There is a very good conversion site to be found on http://www.onlineconversion.com/weight\_all.htm. These leg irons are usually used on prisoners who have either tried to escape or attacked other prisoners, we imagine. They are basically the model number 05CHLA with extra weight moulded round the chain.
